Their Death is More like Dreaming

We ought to honor the saints. They are Christ's friends, children and heirs of God. This is the teaching of the theologian and evangelist John: 'To all who received him ... the Word gave power to become children of God' (John 1:12). The Creator of all things is called in Scripture Lord of lords, King of kings, God of gods. The saints are precisely lords, kings and gods, not in their own nature but because they have become lords over themselves, they have ruled their passions, they have kept intact that image of God in which they were created. Indeed, the saints of their own choice are united to God, they have welcomed Him as a guest in their hearts, and by sharing with Him have become what He is by nature.

They have become God's servants, friends and children. The honor given to His faithful servants of which they are the witness is a test of our love for our Lord and theirs. He has found in them a spotless dwelling place and has performed his promise: 'I will make my abode among you ... and I will walk among you and will be your God' (Lev. 26:11-12).

It is of the saints that Scripture says: 'The souls of the righteous are in the hand of God and the torment of death shall not touch them' (Wisd. 3:1). In fact, their death is more like dreaming than dying. God is life and light, and those who are in the hand of God are themselves life and light. By means of the Spirit, God is dwelling in the bodies of the saints. Why then should we not honor the temple of the living God?

The most important human endeavor is the striving for morality in our actions. Our inner balance and even our very existence depend on it. Only morality in our actions can give beauty and dignity to life.

THE HEROES OF HEBREWS ELEVEN

The Holy Prophet Amos. Our Holy Father Jerome

The 11th chapter of Hebrews bears relevance to believers who have gone through great sorrow and suffering. Described in that chapter are the men and women who persevered in hardship and danger for the sake of the Cross. Some were tortured, imprisoned, flogged, stoned, sawed in two and put to death by the sword. They were destitute, mistreated, persecuted and inadequately clothed. They wandered in deserts, in mountains, in caves and in holes in the ground. It is most important to understand that "they died not receiving what they had been promised" (Heb. 11:35-40). St. John Chrysostom describes the trials of some of these heroes of the faith: What about Abraham? Who has suffered more misfortunes than he? ... What about Jacob ...? Did he not endure more grievous sufferings than his grandfather? ... What about David? How many misfortunes did he endure? ... What about Jeremiah? Did he not curse the day of his birth because of the succession of disasters? What about Moses himself? Does he not say in his discouragement, "If Thou wilt deal thus with me, kill me at once?" What about Elijah? Did he not lament to God even after many miracles, "Take away my life, for I am no better than my father?" If they were heroes, was it not because their faith was tried and tested? "Unto you it is given in behalf of Christ, not only to believe on Him, but also to suffer for His sake" (Phil. 1:20).

After a husband and wife have a heated argument, the wife calls her mother. "He fought with me again! I'm coming over to live with you."

To which her mother replies, "No, no, darling. He must pay for his mistake. I'm coming to live with you."
